RESCUE MISSION

Teams are divided into Leaders, Supervisors and Workers. Teams must work together to move a transportation device with precious cargo from one roped off containment area to another roped off customer service area. The challenge of the task is that Leaders and Supervisors cannot touch, and the Workers cannot see, the device or the cargo. To successfully solve the problem, the team must have a clear plan and constant communication. At the completion of the exercise, our facilitators Debrief with the team, helping to identify how they came up with and implemented solutions, how the situation and the followers affected the leadership, and how 'supervisors' and 'workers' communicated with and listened to each other.
